Note 1: The term 'recordable crime' should be taken to mean a crime which is recorded by the Police and reported to the Home Office (i.e. notifiable offences). The term notifiable offence does not cover all crime dealt with by the police, as certain offence types are not reported to the Home Office e.g. particular motoring offences and instances of drunk and disorderly behaviour. This however does not mean that a crime has not occurred, been recognised or dealt with by the Police, as all offences are recorded on local systems and any resultant outcomes (e.g. charge, cautions etc.) are recorded on PNC, the Police National Computer.

Note 2: These figures represent the primary arrest reasons only. In some cases an individual may be the subject of an additional (secondary) arrest for an offence which was discovered at a later time .

Note 3: The figures above represent the initial arrest reason on arrival at each Custody Suite. In some cases an individual may eventually be charged with a different offence, or may not be charged at all.
